Mayor Soden invites questions or comments from the public and council at this time. Michael Sands the city’s TIF attorney was available to help answer any questions via Zoom. Councilwoman Gobar asked what this is for. Mr. Woldt explained that this is for the other half of the residential lots in the Grandview Addition. This will cover the infrastructure and paving for the other half of the residential lots known as Phase II and the paving in the commercial side. Councilman Schweers asked how TIF works. Michael Sands said the Community Redevelopment Law of Nebraska allows as an economic incentive to freeze the property tax amounts before the project and then after the project is built, that increase is incremental in the property taxes on the individual lots in this case, are separated and sent back to the builder (the city) to pay towards the loan for the next fifteen years to cover the debt to put in the infrastructure and paving for the project. This is a true up since costs have gone up since the project first started. Councilman Meyer asked if the valuation went from $250,000.00 to $450,000.00. This is what we think the value of the property would be but have no control what the county assessor will value them at.
